

Komal S. Sri-Kumar, PhD
Managing Director, Chief Global Strategist
Chairman–Comprehensive Asset Allocation Committee

TCW

Mr. Sri-Kumar is responsible for asset allocation across multiple investment strategies, including U.S. and foreign equities, fixed income, private equity, energy and real estate. He leads the $1.5 billion TCW Comprehensive Asset Allocation strategy and, as Chief Global Strategist, he advises the firm's portfolio managers on global economic trends. Prior to joining TCW in 1990, Mr. Sri-Kumar was Senior Vice President at Drexel Burnham Lambert and Executive Vice President of DBL Americas, responsible for country risk analysis. Before Drexel, he was President of the New York-based Country Risk Consulting Service which he founded to advise Big Eight accounting firms and investment and commercial banks on Latin American countries' debt service capacity. Mr. Sri-Kumar holds an MA from the Delhi School of Economics, and M. Phil. and PhD degrees from Columbia University.

Mr. Sri-Kumar has spoken at several conferences on the global economic outlook and he is a frequent commentator on CNBC, Bloomberg TV, and Fox Business. His articles and interviews have been published in The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, and The Financial Times.